About Tradin Organic

Tradin Organic is a global front-runner in organic ingredients. Founded over 30 years ago and headquartered in Amsterdam, we have grown into a worldwide network sourcing, processing, and supplying more than 150 organic ingredients from over 60 origins. Our diverse portfolio carries a wide range of certifications and includes frozen fruit and vegetables, dried fruits, coffee, cocoa, sugar, grains, beans, pulses, seeds, nuts, oils, fats, fruit concentrates, sweeteners, and more.

Our full-service approach is built on a unique supply chain that connects directly with farmers and sourcing projects around the world. With strong traceability, in-house processing facilities and rigorous quality assurance, we ensure reliable and sustainable ingredient supply.

At Tradin Organic, we don't just trade organic ingredients. We partner with farmers, invest in sustainable agriculture, and contribute to the Nature Positive movement, helping restore soils, protect biodiversity, and build resilient supply chains.

Together, we supply organic ingredients that taste good and do good. Join us in our mission to make organic everyone's first choice.

About the internship

As a Marketing & Communications Intern, you'll support the daily activities of our Marketing & Communications team and gain practical experience across both external and internal communications for Tradin Organic and its subsidiaries. You'll learn how a professional marketing team operates within an international company while helping to keep day-to-day operations running smoothly.

Your tasks, responsibilities and objectives

- Assist with daily administration and operational tasks within the Marketing & Communications team
- Learn to support digital marketing and content management (website updates, reporting, marketing automation basics)
- Help create or update digital and print materials, such as product sheets, presentations, and advertisements
- Contribute to basic graphic design and asset creation using Canva and, if interested, Adobe tools
- Support the Trade Show & Events team with practical preparation tasks (samples, inventory checks, updating slide decks)
- Assist in internal communications by helping draft and publish updates for colleagues around the world
- Actively seek learning opportunities: new tools, new processes, or new marketing skills

Requirements

- Currently studying or recently completed an MBO/HBO program in marketing, communications, media, business administration, or a related field
- Some experience through previous internships, part-time work, or school projects is welcome but not required
- Strong written and spoken English. Dutch, Spanish, French, or German is a plus
- Comfortable with MS Office; interest in improving your PowerPoint or Excel skills
- Familiarity with Canva or eagerness to learn; basic Adobe skills are a plus
- Hands-on mindset: you don't mind rolling up your sleeves and supporting administrative and operational tasks
- Curiosity about CMS tools, email marketing platforms, social scheduling, and marketing automation
- Detail-oriented, organized, and willing to handle recurring administrative tasks

What we offer

- A workspace in the heart of Amsterdam, next to Central Station, with the option to work partly remote
- The opportunity to learn from an international Marketing & Communications team and grow your skills across multiple MarCom disciplines
- Coaching, regular feedback, and opportunities to take on more responsibility as you learn
- Good working conditions in a dynamic and supportive environment
- A competitive internship compensation package
- An informal yet professional company culture built on teamwork and a can-do attitude
